

Название публикации:

Theoretical and methodological aspects of human capital management

Авторы:

Golikova, G.V.a, Larionov, V.G.b, Verbitskaya, S.I.c, Fasenko, T.E.d, Kokhanenko, D.V.d

- a. Voronezh State University, Voronezh, Russian Federation
- b. Bauman Moscow State Technical University, Moscow, Russian Federation
- c. Smolensk Branch of Plekhanov Russian University of Economics, Smolensk, Russian Federation
- d. Financial University under the Government of the Russian Federation, Barnaul Branch, Barnaul, Russian Federation

Сведения об издании:

Advances in Intelligent Systems and Computing

Volume 622, 2018, Pages 359-365

Аннотация:

In the modern conditions, competitive advantages of economy and possibilities for its modernization are determined by the accumulated and realized human capital. Human capital can be determined as a totality of knowledge, competences, and qualities, embodied individually in each employee, which stimulate the creation of personal, social, and socio-cultural economic well-being of the society. Intellectualization of economy destroys the foundations of the anthropogenic civilization – motives and goals that formed its integrity and were the driving force of the progressive movement. The imperative of maximization of material well-being was replaced by realization of the possibility for self-affirmation through possession and use of knowledge.

Ключевые слова:

Capital, Competition, Economic development, Economic sense, Education, Human, Human capital, Investments, Labor, Resource, Competition, Education, Investments, Personnel, Capital, Economic development, Economic sense, Human, Human capitals, Resource, Economics